DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or over-busy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better by reason of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

LEOPARDS LOOSE.

Two big East Indian leopards leaped out of a cage into the audience at the Zoo, a permanent circus on North avenue, Baltimore, last night, causing a wild stampede for the doors.

Mme. Loe had six leopards doing tricks in a steel cage that stands in the center of the main floor. The cage is circular, and contains a platform. The bars rise to a height of two stories and then turn inward, the cage having no roof.

The audience on the first floor was in seats encircling the cage. Galleries which encircle the cage were also filled with onlookers. The leopards were posing in different attitudes, when one of them refused to do his trick. Mme. Loe prodded the beast to urge it on. It responded by leaping upward from the platform to a height of fifteen feet. It cleared the top of the bars and kept on toward the edge of the gallery.

The beast landed on the head of Louis Sloan, aged thirteen years, tearing the flesh off one side of his face to the bone.

As soon as the first leopard had landed in the gallery, a second one made the leap upward and dropped into the audience.

Pandemonium reigned at once, and there was a wild rush for the door.

Before many could escape, Police Sergeant Bamsuguer locked the doors leading out the gallery to a narrow stairway, thus preventing a loss of life. The police also locked a door leading up to the third floor, where there is a skating rink and 400 hundred persons were whirling around on wheels.

Men, women, and children were soon shouting and crying, and women became hysterical. They beat against the doors with their fists, but to no avail. During the height of the excitement the two leopards were moving in and out among the people, who were fleeing and then redoubling on their on footsteps.

The leopards worked their way through the shrieking crowd toward one end of the gallery into a dressing-room, with the keepers at their heels.

The door of the room was quickly shut, after which cages were brought and the animals enticed into them. Then the exits to the streets were opened. The crowd rushed out and tried to collect its nerves.

They were told the show would be resumed, but not a person returned, and the Zoo was closed for the night.

EFFECTS OF PROHIBITION.

The local prohibition law went into effect at Winchester last night, the eleven Winchester saloons closing their doors. On April 15 the city voted out the saloons by a majority of 100 votes and the liquor dealers were given only two weeks in which to close out their stock. Since the election there has been a rush to buy liquor, and hundreds of barrels of whisky and as many crates of beer, besides large quantities of wines, brandies and other intoxicants have been sold in the town and county within the past two weeks. Conspicuous among purchasers of liquors are some who voted the "dry" ticket at the election.

Martinsburg, Charlestown and Harpers Ferry, W. Va.; Washington, D. C., and Baltimore dealers are actively competing for the Winchester trade during the local option regime. The town loses $5,500 annual revenue by closing the saloons. Farmers came into town yesterday from miles around to get their jugs filled, and the saloons have practically exhausted their stock of goods.

In accordance with the local option election held at Danville April 15, eighteen saloons and two breweries closed down at 7 o'clock last night. The saloons were filled to overflowing with patrons, and a great number of citizens took advantage of the reduced prices to lay in a supply of liquor.

It is rumored that the proprietors of the various saloons in Danville have been keeping a list of the citizens who voted "dry" in the recent election, and who during the past several days have purchased a considerable supply of whisky and other intoxicating beverages. The rumor goes that the list of this peculiar class of patrons of the saloons will be published in the daily papers.

It is reported also that photographers taken "snap-shots" of some of the "drys" at the bars during the last hours that the saloons were open. People with cameras were seen at one of the whisky auction sales yesterday.

THE HIPPOCRATIAN OATH.

"First and last, day and night, he who has given himself to the cause of medicine sees the most sordid, the most terrifying, the most pitiful side of humanity," says a writer in Appleton's Magazine. "His training is in the slums where the elements of life may touch even the lowest and basest; his service is demanded in sickness and pain, and his final act, as irrevocably as the rising of the sun, is to close the eyes forever of others, even, perhaps, those whom he bought into the world. He is the possessor of secrets the repository of sorrow.

"'Into whatever house I enter I will go for the benefit of the sick. With purity and holiness I will pass my life and practice my art.' So ran the oath administrated by Hyppocrates to his students almost five centuries before Christ, and so still stands today the physician's ideal. Medicine then partook of a character of holiness, for the students, too, swore to 'reckon him who taught me this art equally dear to me as my parents, to look upon his off-spring in the same footing as my own brothers and to teach them this art if they shall wish it without fee or stipulation.'

"Can anyone to-day, with an inkling of the life of the disciple of medicine, doubt that the spirit of this ancient oath is rigidly observed in its practice? Or that as Hyppocrates dictated 2,500 years ago, 'Whatever in connection with my profession practice or not in connection with it I see or hear in the life of men which ought not be spoken abroad, I will not divulge as reckoning all that should be kept secret.'"

"E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.—Gentlemen—In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. In the spring of 1902 I bought a bottle of Kodol and the benefit I received all the gold in Georgia could not buy. May you live long and prosper. Yours very truly, C. N. Cornell, Rodine, Ga., Aug. 27, 1906." Sold by W. F. Creighton & Co.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER.

ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE SIC SEMPER TYRANNIS AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 1, 1908

MAY DAY is a "peace day" at last. For the first time in years the advent of May finds industrial peace general throughout the United States. There are no important labor disputes pending anywhere and where minor strikes are in progress local grievances are the cause. Dispatches from New York state that in practically all the trades and industries prevailing conditions are regarded as good, especially in view of the recent financial depression. The only drawback is the fact that an unusually large number of laboring people are out of work. But conditions, it is said, are gradually growing better, as business recuperates from the recent flurry. Before the year is out, these leaders predict practically all the workers who were thrown out of work by the enforced idleness of many factories or who were cut down to short time, will be back at their old places working on full time.

IN a speech delivered in the Senate, April 25, Senator Aldrich declared that the appropriations carried in bills already passed or pending were 100 million dollars greater than those of last year, not counting the 20 million carried this year in the public buildings bill, which brought the total up to over 120 millions. He said, too, that there is now a probable deficit of $60,000,000 for the present fiscal year. How do the tax payers like the republican financial programme that plunders the many for the benefit of the few?

IT IS reported that this country is to invade Venezuela with an army of 5,000 or 10,000 men. The "General Staff" seems to have forgotten Gen. Braddock's experience in a similar undertaking among the mountains of western Pennsylvania, and the experience of the British in the Boer war. A war with Venezuela would be a costly enterprise; but it might help to elect a republican president, and help out the grasping and corrupt asphalt trust.

THE English government is building "power kites," as war machines. When the President hears the news, he will, no doubt, send Congress a special message demanding big appropriations for new "power kites." A world power without power kites would hereafter be a sorry spectacle, indeed. A 20 million dollar power kite would knock the democrats out of the running, and make world-power Roosevelt a perpetuity.

SECRETARY CORTELYOU has called on the national banks to pay back $45,000,000 more of the government deposits. At the rate the surplus is disappearing it will soon be a question of more bonds, or more taxes, for the appropriations now being made for the next fiscal year show this standpat republican Congress to be more extravagant than other Congresses before it.

GEORGE C. HITT, formerly business manager of the Indianapolis Journal, was yesterday appointed receiver for the Indianapolis Star, Muncie Star and Terra Haute Star, known as the Star League of Newspapers. The running of newspapers is a difficult and precarious undertaking now-a-days and much money; good judgment and long experience are needed in their conduct.

IT appears, according to the complaint of some of the stockholders of the steel trust, that bonuses are being paid to the officials over and above their very large salaries. Another good reason why the tariff which protects the trusts should be abolished or diminished.

JUDGE PARKER will head the New York delegation at Denver. This is said to be the first time a defeated candidate for president has been a delegate, but New York democrats are to be congratulated on being so ably represented.

ONE must pay his poll tax by to-morrow (Saturday) night, or he cannot vote next fall for the presidential or congressional nominee, nor will he be entitled to vote at the primary election in June. Pay the tax.

From Washington.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]

Washington, D. C., May 1.

The House has surrendered to the president. He can have anything that the republican leaders in that body can deliver, and should they drop a few bundles on the road to the White House, such as the Hepburn amendment of the Sherman anti-trust law, it will not be by design. Succumbing to pressure from the administration particularly, and republicans generally, who feared the wrath of the November elections and possibly the democratic filibuster, the House leaders have effected a right-about-face. The Interstate Commerce Commission has been given enough money to enforce the Hepburn rate law. The introduction of an anti-injunction bill by the republican floor leader, Mr. Payne, is taken as an assurance by its friends on both sides of the House that it will go through before adjournment. The McCall national campaign contribution bill, reported out of committee after a vigorous fight in its behalf by the democrats, is to be called up in the House for passage. One of the most determined fights ever made to push a bill through the House is being waged now, in behalf of the Vreeland bill amended first this way and that, in order to get enough votes to pass it in some sort of shape. The first step toward tariff revision has been taken, by Mr. Payne introducing a resolution to authorize the ways and means committee to gather information during the summer, with which to revise the tariff. This is exactly the course the president advised. Speaker Cannon has announced he will no longer oppose amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law. A child labor bill for the District of Columbia, desired by the president, as a model for the States, will be pushed through. A bill providing for the payment of damages by the government to government employes injured in the line of duty, has been given a pass ticket. All these measures have been advocated by the president in his four messages to Congress this session.

Admiral Dewey began his celebration, today, of the tenth anniversary of the victory over the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay, by receiving a deluge of congratulations from friends inside and outside the navy. Tonight he will dine with a number of the officers who fought in the engagement. Admiral Dewey will preside at the banquet. Admiral Dewey sailed from Hong King on April 25, 1898, with orders to find and destroy the fleet unper Admiral Montojo. How he found it, and started the engagement is now a matter for school histories. The American fleet lost but one man killed. The Spaniards lost nine warships, a transport, and the water battery at Cavite, and between 300 and 400 men killed.

A start in the direction of the purchase of homes for American ambassadors in European capitals is made in the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill as reported to the Senate today. The Senate committee has added an amendment appropriating $400,000 "for the purchase of building and grounds, or of a site and the erection of a building thereon" in Paris for the use of the American embassy in that city. The furnishing of the house is also provided for.

The second convention of the National League of Women Workers is in session here. Six-hundred wage-earning women, representing practically every line of endeavor, are in attendance from seven eastern States. The organization has a membership of 10,000 and its aim is co-operation and assistance to women workers, who are earning their own living. The convention is held for the sole purpose of studying the national capital, and acquiring an insight into the part Washington plays in the affairs of the nation.

Dr. Leon, otherwise known as Edward Leon Thompson, who was a figure in the Strothers-Bywater case at Culpeper, Va., pleaded not guilty today on a charge of criminal malpractice alleged to have been peformed on Lizzie Petit. He was held on $4,000 bond.

That the Payne anti-injunction bill will be reported to the House for passage from the committee on judiciary is the prediction made today by members of the committee, and there are some in this number who say the bill is a "bluff." Supporters of the president's legislative programme were circulating the story today that Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is opposed to the Payne measure on the ground that is a substerfuge and has no force or substance.

Justice Barnard of the District Supreme Court today announced that he would overrule the motion made by Attorneys Henry E. Davis and John E. Laskey for arrest of judgment on behalf of Percy Wade, who was convicted a few weeks ago of maintaining a bucket shop in violation of the gambling laws of the District.

The commodity clause of the railroad rate law went into effect today, all efforts to secure the passage of a modification of the law prior to this date having failed in Congress up to now.

Sixtieth Congress.

Washington, May 1.

SENATE.

Denouncing the press with bitter invective, Senator Jeff. Davis, of Arkansas, today made a sensational speech in the Senate as a reply to editorial comments upon the remarks he made on the floor last December, a few days after he was sworn in.

Admitting that there were some honest newspapers, he declared that those which had criticized him were "subsidized" by the trusts. Defying them as "damnable imps of pelf and greed," he invited them to do their worst. He warned the Senate that, in popular opinion, that body was regarded as the defender of predatory wealth, and speaking to a motion to discharge the committee from further consideration of his anti-trust bill, he urged that the Senate should purge itself by "doing something for the people."

If trusts had influence in the Senate he declared that it was indirect, but, he said, members were but men possessed of the weakness, fears, hopes and temptations of other men.

"Approach Senators directly?" he asked. "No. Not that the trusts would not, did not the honor of a Senator warn them that they dare not. Assured thus of the rebuke that must follow direct approach, a system infinitely removed and wholly metaphysical is adroitly woven around the habitat of legislation. Necromancy? Hypnotism is the better word. It is the hypnotism of wealth. By its exquisite agencies, though neither the person nor the honor is harmed, the will is unconsciously controlled."

Special interests, he said, sought by intimidation to make plain speaking unpopular. Certain of the press even, allured by vain glory of gold, had set a fashion to deride and decry whatever was calculated to arouse the country to its true condition. He had been denounced from one end of the union to the other as a demagogue for desiring action savoring of the public weal. "Even while I speak," he declared, "spies and sentinels are impatient, and ere my last word shall be spoken, a line of craven newspapers, seizing upon what has been so truthfully said, will contort it to deceive the public as if anarchy were ranting treason in the Senate."

Concluding Mr. Davis hurled this philippic at the press;

"Miserable travesties upon noble manhood, postgraduates in all arts of slander or defamation, I challenge a subsidized press. The people know your designs and spurn your pretences. Go! damnable imps of pelf and greed, I defy your taunts. Tear to fragments my political career, if it comport with your execrable will; stifle and distort my every utterance; not satisfied, if such be your brutal frenzy, lash my poor form into insensibility; then if it be your further pleasure, gnaw from my stiffening limbs every vestige of quivering flesh; howl in wretched bestiality through my own innocent blood as it drips from your fiendish visages. Drag then, if you want, what remains into the filth and vermin of your foul dens and burn it upon the altar of Baal, or scatter it before the friendly winds of heaven to your betters, the carrion crows of the field. All that may they do, all and more, if there yet be open further depths of infamy to a polluted, besotten pack."

HOUSE.

A long debate took place on the proposition to strike out from the sundry civil appropriation bill the clause which would prevent civil service men from doing duty in other departments of the government. The result was that by an amendment to the bill these men can be so used.

NO BISHOPS CHOSEN.

The Episcopal Diocese of Delaware is still without a bishop to succeed the late Rt. Rev. Leighton Coleman. The special convention resumed its sessions in Christ Church, Dover yesterday after a futile meeting in St. Andrew's Church, Wilmington, February 19, and the clergy succeeded in electing two men to the bishopric, only to have the laity reject both.

Rev. Dr. Samuel Hart, of Middletown, Conn., secretary of the house of bishops and custodian of the prayer book, was first chosen on the twenty-ninth ballot. The laymen by a vote of 43 to 3 refused to confirm the election.

On the thirty-fourth ballot the clergymen elected Rev. Dr. George Y. Bliss, of Burlington, Vt., and again the laymen turned down the selection. The lay vote in this case was 26 yeas and 21 nays, the necessary two-thirds majority being lacking.

Two deaths occurred in Manassas yesterday as the result of accidents. Charles the twelve-year-old son of Barney Bryant, fell upon some boards about ten days ago and one of his hands was pierced by a rusty nail. COLD WAVE.

Extremely cold weather prevailed throughout Virginia last night, accompanied by light snows in the southwest section. Reports from various and widely separated points indicate that the damage to the fruit crop and early vegetables will be severe. The weather is the most severe experienced in Virginia in many years at this season. The section west of Lynchburg will be the greatest sufferer. It is in the mountain section that snow has fallen, and it is there that the young fruit will suffer greatest harm.

Temperatures approaching freezing prevailed yesterday over nearly the entire country from the Alleghenies to the Rockies. Frosts occurred as far south as southern Texas. In many places heavy, wet snow fell, notably throughout Ohio and Kentucky. Fruit growers differ as to the extent of the damage done. The frost means a loss of many thousands of dollars to Wisconsin and Minnesota planters.

Snow fell throughout western Pennsylvania. In a rainstorm which followed the snow in Pittsburg several houses were struck by lightning.

"PETER'S PENCE"

The "Peter's pence" collection of the Catholic diocese of New York this year will amount to at least $250,000, and may reach the grand total of $300,000 when the returns from all churches have been learned. This amount exceeds that of previous years by many thousands, and is probably the largest amount contributed by any diocese, not only in the United States, but throughout the the world. This sum was given by the 200 parishes of the diocese, which embraces boroughs of New York city and Yonkers, the average for each church being more than $1,500. Of this sum of more than a quarter of a million dollars, the 120 churches in Manhattan contributed by far the greater part, especially those parishes controlled by the religious orders, whose congregations number many wealthy communicants. The unusually large amount of the collection this year is ascribed to the fact of the centenary celebration.

Today's Telegraphic News.

The Disaster to the Matsushima.

Tokio, May 1.—In the absence of complete reports concerning the sinking of the Japanese training cruiser Matsushima off the Pescadores Islands, the intensest anxiety continues among the officers, cadets and seamen with the squadron. Only surmises are possible as yet concerning the identities of those who perished, the distribution the admiral had made of the force under him among the ships of the squadron being uncertain, and even the number of those aboard the Matsushima in doubt. The vessel's complement of sailors and cadets is estimated all the way from 300 to 400, or a trifle more, and upon this question will depend the extent of the loss of life. That 175 were saved is the only point made clear in the dispatches thus far received.

Tokio, May 1.—Divers have discovered a tremendous hole in the sunken cruiser Matsushima which went to the bottom off Makang, Pescadores Islands. The deck is torn to bits and the interior, is so badly wrecked that few of the bodies can yet be recovered, though the inspection shows many of them inside the shattered craft. The corpses of the captain and commander, however, have been brought to the surface. It is not yet determined whether defective electric wiring or the deterioration of ammunition caused the explosion. Experts believe one or the other cause was responsible. Information concerning the divers' work comes in an official report from the scene of the wreck, but the exact number of drowned is still in doubt.

May Day.

New York, May 1.—As an evidence of the peace that exists in the labor world here an enormous labor demonstration, under the auspices of socialists, is to be held in Union Square this afternoon to celebrate May Day. A permit has been granted the industrial workers of the world, composed of members of the socialist labor party, to hold the rally. Police, who broke up the meeting held without a permit several weeks ago, which led to a bomb throwing, will today act as guard of honor along the line of march. The orators will be permitted to talk freely, and in return the socialists have promised no attempt will be made to carry red flags.

Paris, May 1.—May Day, usually an occasion of turbulence, labor troubles and street fighting throughout France, promises to pass off quietly this year. So far no disorders have been reported. Tremendous enthusiasm for "social revolution by an international understanding among workingmen," as the speakers expressed it, was manifested at the most important of the gatherings, that of the labor exchange, at which 5,000 were present. Resolutions were adopted pledging the exchange to continue the fight for an eight-hour day.

Conditions in Cochin China.

Saigon, May 1.—Fierce skirmishing is reported between the rebellious Siamese just across the Cochin Chinese border and the French troops on their way to the relief of the beleagered European colony at Battambang, Siam.

The French have been invariably successful and, despite the fighting, have been little delayed. Latest dispatches indicate that the Europeans in Battambang are holding their own and it is believed all will be saved unless indeed, some have been slain in resisting the natives' attack.

The French frontier posts, which have also been attacked at several points are being strongly reinforced. The outbreak at and near Battambang is attributed to dissatisfaction among the Siamese of the French occupation of the province which, though long within the Gallic sphere of influence, has been left pretty much to itself until recently.

Last Night's Wind.

New York, May 1.—Life savers along the Long Island and Jersey coasts are on the lookout today for wrecks of small craft which may have foundered during the terrific wind storm which swept greater New York and the coast during the night. So far no loss of life has been reported, but it is feared that there have been a few deaths as a direct result of small boats being wrecked. From a gentle breeze the wind increased in velocity until it blew at the rate of 45 miles an hour. In Greater New York the wind blew down a number of trees in Central Park and in the upper portion of the city windows were smashed and havoc played generally with signs. So great was the force of the wind that a number of persons were blown against obstacles and received severe bruises, but none was fatally hurt, however. On Staten Island the wind knocked down electric wires and traffic was dangerous owing to the live wires.

Burglars Start Fire.

Staunton, Va., May 1.—Burglars started a fire early today in the big general store of R. S. Hoolis in Rowlesburg, a village on the Baltimore and Ohio Railway. Before it could be got under control nine of the largest houses in the place had been destroyed causing a loss of $75,000. The fire department of Oakland was sent to the place on a special train. The firemen aided the citizens of Rowlesburg and by using dynamite succeeded in checking the spread of the fire that threatened to wipe out the entire town. The robbers blew open the Hoolis safe and secured several thousand dollars. A posse is in pursuit.

Chinaman Burned to Death.

Chicago, May 1.—Tom Lee, a Chinaman was burned to death, Lee Wah, Charley Cloy and Sam Lee were almost suffocated and Firemen Joseph Corrigan and Chris. Cheevers were overcome in a fire which destroyed the saloon and chop suey establishment at 63 d and Halsted street, owned by Michael O'Hara. The blaze started early today in the saloon and spread rapidly to the Chinese restaurant upstairs. All the Chinese were sleeping in bunks in the rear of the place. Lee died before he could be rescued.

New York Stock Market.

New York, May 1.—For a good part of the first hour a weak tone prevailed. Losses ranged from fractions to over one point in practically everything traded in up to the last half hour. It was a matter of comment, though there was no evidence of liquidation in any part of the room. The room generally held to the idea that the absence of information strongly indicated that the 7 per cent. rate of dividend on Pennsylvania will not be maintained. After the first hour a generally strong tone prevailed.

The Centenary of the Catholic Diocese.

New York, May 1.—This was practically a day of rest for the distinguished prelates and priests who have taken part in the exercises celebrating the centenary of the Catholic diocese of New York. Excepting the pontifical votive mass to the Sacred Heart at St Patrick's Cathedral, there was no event scheduled on the programme.

The Rt. Rev. Charles H. Colton, bishop of Buffalo, acted as celebrant at this mass; Mgr. Thomas Taafe was assistant priest, the Rev. James Connolly deacon and the Rev. Rev. T. F. Myhan, sub-deacon. The Rev. Wm. O'Brien Pardow, an eminent Jesuit orator, delivered the sermon.

Tomorrow will come the great procession in which it is estimated 40,000 clergy and laymen will participate. All preparations for the great event were completed today. Starting at Washington square, the beginning of Fifth avenue, the parade will pass up the avenue to 57th street. It will be reviewed from an enormous grand stand in front of St. Patrick's Cathedral by Cardinal Logue, Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Farley and other prominent divines. Major General Thomas Barry will act as grand marshal.

Bishop Potter Ill.

New York, May 1.—While his condition is not believed to be dangerous, it is feared that Bishop Henry C. Potter, who is suffering from a physical breakdown, will not be able again to take an active part in the affairs of the church. Mentally the bishop is the same as he always has been, and his breakdown is the direct result of overwork. Bishop Potter's illness will also prevent him from attendidg the funeral services over Dr. Dix, rector of Trinity parish, who died Wednesday. For the time being, at least, the bishop has been forced to abandon his work, and Dr. Frederick Courtney, rector of St. James Church, and Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead, of Pittsburg, are aiding the coadjutor bishop to perform the duties which, under ordinary circumstances, were part of the bishop's duty. Dr. Janeyn, the bishop's physician, stated today that his patient was a very sick man, but expressed hope that the bishop would recover.

Mexico Makes Demand.

City of Mexico, May 1.—Verification or denial of reports that Guatemala has forced an entrance to the Nicaraugan consulate general at Guatemala City; that Honduran Consul General Minden and his son were seized there; that the Uruguayan consul general has taken refuge in the United States legation and that Guatemala City is almost in a condition of anarchy, have been hastily demanded by the foreign ministry of the Mexican diplomatic corps at President Cabrera's capital. Government officials here feel confident war cannot be avoided in Central America, and military preparations are being quietly but hastily made to protect Mexican interests here.

Steamers Collide.

Bremen, May 1.—Heavily loaded with passengers for Baltimore the North German Lloyd steamer Koln collided off the Prussian Island of Norderney today with the German steamer Czar Nicholas. Both vessels were badly damaged, the Koln so seriously that it was deemed unsafe even to leave her passengers aboard while the steamer Field Marshal, which came to the rescue, towed her into port. They were accordingly transferred to the Field Marshal and returned to Bremen with the crippled craft. There was a panic on the Koln when the crash occured which was quieted, however, when the Field Marshal drew alongside. No one was hurt.

Ship Stranded.

New York, May 1.—The revenue cutter Mohawk is today standing by, ready at the first possible moment to give assistance to the stranded four-masted, square-rigged ship driven ashore during last night's terrible gale on the shoals ten miles west of Fire Island signal tower. As yet the sea is still running too high for the life savers to attempt a rescue. The wrecked ship is the Peter Rickmer which left this port for Rangoon, India. This morning the Mohawk had worked into a position three miles from the stranded ship, but could approach no nearer until the storm subsided.

Charged With Burglary.

San Francisco, May 1.—Dr. W. W. Goelet, graduate of Columbia College and a world-wide traveler, who recently left the employe of Evangelist B. Fay Mills as secretary, is in the Berkley city prison charged with the alleged burglary of eight residences and apartment houses in Oakland and Berkley. Goelet has been living in various fashionable hotels in San Francisco and Oakland. He recently married Miss Corrinne McGowan, of Oakland. She, it is said, aided the police to arrest him. Goelet's parents are prominent residents of Washington, D. C. He is 36, and speaks several languages fluently.

He went at once aboad the cruiser Prairie and sailed this afternoon for Colon. He was greeted at the station by Mayor Rhett and a party of State officials. He declined, as usual, to talk politics.

TRAIN ROBBERS AT WORK.

After a desperate battle last night with two robbers, the messenger in charge of the express car of the New York-St. Louis express of the Pennsylvania Railroad was bound and gagged, tossed into a corner, and left there while the intruders blew a safe in the car, looted it of four bags of currency and gold, and then signaled the engineer to stop. When the train slowed down the men jumped from the car and escaped.

In trying to ascertain the cause of the signal to stop, the train crew found the car door open and found the messenger inside. According to the messenger's story, he was busily engaged after the train left the union station at Pittsburg, at 10:05 p. m. Without warning he was attacked, and at Carnegie, eight miles from Pittsburg, the stop signal was given and the men got away.

As quickly as possible the alarm was giving and after telling his story, the messenger went west with train. A posse is now scouring the hills of Carnegie for the hold-up men.

It is believed the robbers got into the car at the union station, and started for the messenger in the tunnel, about a quarter of a mile from the station. That they were familiar with the train is believed by officers.

Nathan Roshen, the messenger, refused to tell how much plunder the men got. The passengers were not molested.

Pittsburg, May 1.—M. B. Slater, Pittsburg agent of the Adams Express Company, stated today that the amount secured by the robbers is not nearly $80,000 or even one half of that sum. He said there is no way in which he can tell exactly how much was taken, but he believed $20,000 would cover the loss. He also said there was no truth in the reports that the sacks taken by the thieves contained gold coins from the sub-treasury in New York to the one in St. Louis.

The "History of Truro Parish in Virginia" by the Rev. Philip Slaughter, D. D., edited with notes and addenda by the Rev. E. L. Goodwin historiographer of the Diocese of Virginia, published by Jacobs & Co., Philadelphia.

It is a great pleasure to be able to welcome such a valuable work as this which gives us the history of one of the most important parishes in the State of Virginia. For the Colonial period and for two or three years after the close of the Revolutionary war, this book is dependent upon the old vestry book of Truro Parish which begins its records with the foundation of the parish in 1732 and closes with some records of the overseers of the poor in 1785.

This most interesting book now in the possession of the vestry of Pohick Church and deposited at Mount Vernon for safe keeping, was lost for a long time but was fortunately discovered by the Rev. Dr. Slaughter about twenty years ago. He at once recognized the value of the old records therein contained, and left the "History of Truro Parish" in manuscript as his last work. After his death this manuscript was confided to the care of the Rev. S. A. Wallis, then rector of Pohick Church. Its publication was, however, delayed until the great interest aroused by the tercentenary of the founding of the colony and old church of Virginia at Jamestown gave the opportunity for publishing Dr. Slaughter's manuscript. It was then placed in the hands of the Rev. E. L. Goodwin, now rector of Zion Church, Fairfax county, and historiographer of the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia. With his usual thoroughness he compared Dr. Slaughter's manuscript with the old vestry book, and continued the history of the parish down to the present time. He has done an excellent piece of work and made a most valuable contribution to the history of Fairfax county, and the State and church life of Virginia. For it must be remembered that the vestries were as much secular as ecclesiastical institutions on account of the union between church and State in the colony of Virginia. The churches whose history is recorded here are Pohick Church, Payne's Chapel, destroyed during the civil war; and until 1765 when Fairfax Parish was set off, Christ Church, Alexandria, and Falls Church, Fairfax county. The list of vestrymen contains such names as George Washington, George Mason, George William Fairfax, Alexander Henderson, Daniel McCarthy, Martin Cockburn, the intimate friend of George Mason; William Triplett, and many others who were leaders in the life of the county and State at that time, and whose descendants are still with us, many of them as prominent in county and State life as their fathers were.

Truro Parish was very fortunate in its rectors during the colonial period, both natives of Virginia, men who adorned their high and sacred office—the Rev. Charles Green and the Rev. Lee Massey, the latter an honored friend of Washington, and a frequent guest at Mount Vernon.

We could wish we had time to give a more detailed account of this valuable work issued in such good form by the publishers. But our advice is to all who are interested in the historic county of Fairfax and city of Alexandria to buy the book for themselves. It ought to have a wide circulation and we are sure no one will lay it down until it is read through. It can be obtained from the Rev. E. L. Goodwin, Fairfax Va., at the price of $1.60 postpaid.

SENT ON TO THE GRAND JURY.

George Coleman, colored, was brought before the Police Court this morning charged with breaking and entering a car of the Southern Railway Company. The car was one of a string on a track a short distance north of the W. & O. depot. Special Officer Pankey, who was on duty Wednesday night, while making his rounds heard footsteps on the path between two strings of cars and upon making an investigation was convinced that some person had entered a tool car. He climbed into the car in the darkness, and, while unable to see anyone, he could hear a person breathing. He waited a few moments and then flashed a light when he discovered Coleman crouched in a corner of the car. The special officer took him in custody and conducted him to the station house. Coleman in his defense this morning said he was suffering from toothache and entered the car for the purpose of sleeping in it. Justice Caton sent him on to the grand jury.

Special Officer Pankey last night discovered a negro named William Hellen in a freight car near Seminary station, a short distance west of this city. The darkey acknowledged he had entered the car and broken open a box containing clothing in order that he might obtain a new outfit. He was brought before the Police Court and held for the action of the Fairfax authorities.

ORDINANCE SIGNED.

Mayor Paff today signed the ordinance providing for the appointment and licensing of guides in Alexandria, and it is now a law.

The Mayor will not sign a report of the finance committee, adopted at the last meeting of Council, recommending the payment of $22.50 to John W. Sutton for services as watchman in front of a house where a case of smallpox recently existed. His honor will, however, not veto the action of Council, but will allow the bill to be paid without his approval. He says the bill was contracted in an irregular manner, as no one had the authority to appoint the watchman. The Mayor further says he saw no need of a watchman in such a case; that the police department could have attended to the matter. The Mayor had previously declined to swear in the watchman. He says another man has recently been appointed watchman of a house where an infectious disease is said to exist. This, he asserts, is also without authority.

MAY COMES WITH COLD WAVE

The meteorological conditions accompanying the advent of May were akin to those of March. At the close of yesterday the wind changed from the east to to the northwest, when rain and much colder weather followed. The officers of the steamer Washington, which arrived up from Norfolk this morning about an hour late, report high northwest winds in the bay and river. The weather today has been fair and cool.

Making "Cinnamon" Canaries.

"Cinnamon canaries are the best known of a mere handful of instances where it is possible to change the color of a bird or animal by food. The trick has long been known to fanciers, and each claims to have his own secret for working the miracle, but the process is really simple and consists in abundantly sprinkling the birds' food with red pepper. It is a troublesome process, for a large number of birds either refuse to eat or suffer from deranged digestion. Even of those who take the diet not more than a third or a half will show the color effects. The only inducement to the fanciers to produce this curious change is that once so altered these birds have an artificial value. Dealers will tell you that in addition to the red pepper they give other red articles of food, such as tomato skins, slices of beet and the skins of red apples or cranberries. But this is merely an innocent fallacy, based on the idea that the coloring matter of the food is transferred bodily to the feathers.—Collier's Weekly.

Confession of Mouth.

A city dentist, defending his profession as a whole from the double charge of charlatanism and "graft," made this interesting declaration:

"While such things exist in dentistry, as in all businesses, there is far more of it among gilt edged practitioners than along the modest level where, for example, I work. Some men enjoying the most fashionable clientele are the rankest frauds either in ability or in representation of work done.

"But a dentist never can fool a dentist. Often a patient will get into my chair for the first time, and in a casual conversation I will ask who last treated the teeth. The name always comes, and a glance tells me whether the man has worked honestly or dishonestly. I have sized up some of our 'best' dentists in that way in half a minute, and many a reputation has crumbled in my estimation.

"A dentist can fool the people, but he can't fool a dentist."—New York Globe.

Four Kinds of Nails.

The members of a primary class in the young ladies' school were ambitious to emulate the members of the senior class, whom they regarded with considerable envy on account of their proficiency in the art of writing compositions. Becoming eager for a like privilege, the five little girls were told that they might tell the world what they knew about "nails."

A half hour was allotted to the difficult task, and all went to work. The first four had nothing unusual or startling upon their papers, but Sadie M., aged seven, was characterized by considerable ingenuity. She took her place with dignity and read without a tremor, "There are four kinds of nails—finger nails, door nails, toe nails and tacks!" and resumed her seat bewitchingly unconscious that she had caused the smile.

The Insect and the Net.

It has been known for a long time that an insect will not fly through a net with meshes three or four times as large as its body, whereas a bird will go through a mesh of corresponding size without hesitation. The insect cannot tell us why it stops and lights on the net without trying to go through, and its peculiar action puzzled observers until the scientists took the matter up, as they do all things of that kind. They say that the eye of the insect is made up of many facets, so that the net looks to it like a continuous opaque surface, the meshes not being apparent. Therefore it stops or turns back before it discovers that it might have gone through the net without stopping. To the eye of the bird, however, the meshes are plainly visible, and it goes through without hesitation.

What He Got.

He was addressing a lowly but intelligent audience somewhere in the vicinity of Whitechapel, and he had selected for his discourse "Rhymes and Rhyming," so that he might illustrate to those rough and rugged minds how the charms of poesy can brighten the poor man's hearth. And, touching upon the difficulties of rhyming, he said:

"It is easy enough, my friends, to get a rhyme for so simple a word as 'see,' but what can you get for 'burglary?'"

"Well, guv'nor," exclaimed one of his hearers, "it all depends on the judge. My Bill got seven years!"—London Scraps.

Caddies.

The term "caddies," or "cadies," or "cawdies," is akin to "cad" and "cadet" and means messengers or unattached male servants. Caddies, in fact, were originally a class of men found in every Scotch town of any size who were at the beck and call of everybody who wanted an odd job done; hence they were at the beck and call of everybody who was starting for a game of golf, and now they are employed solely by the golfer.

A Philosopher.

"Smiley says he hasn't any luck at all."

"Indeed! It's something unusual for him to complain."

"Oh, he wasn't complaining. He says he'd rather have no luck than always have it bad."—Exchange.

Her Dear Friend.

"Yes," said she defiantly, "I admit that I kissed him."

"Did he put up much of a struggle?" inquired her best girl friend.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

About the first thing that would strike a dead hero could be return to earth would be the great number who try to answer his name at roll call.—Atchison Globe.
